

TAKING ACTION TO END SLAVERY

You can create the social change that will help end slavery

What You Should Know

» VISIT freetheslaves.net

for videos, links, fact sheets and resources on how you can get involved in ending slavery

» VISIT KnowTheChain.org

to help keep slavery-tainted goods out of your shopping cart

What You Can Do

SECONDS

- » Tweet or Facebook your followers and encourage them to learn about slavery and take action. Use email, Instagram and tumblr, too -- or just tell one person every day that slavery still exists.
- » Call the U.S. National Trafficking Resource Center Hotline at 888-3737-888 if you suspect someone is in slavery and needs help.

10
MINUTES

- » Donate to Free the Slaves (freetheslaves.net) to help end slavery and unfair employment practices worldwide.
- » Buy Lisa Kristine's stunning prints and book of slavery photos (lisakristine.com) – a portion of the proceeds benefits Free the Slaves.
- » Contact your U.S. Senators and Representative and tell them to increase funding for the Trafficking in Persons Office of the U.S. State Department, to fight slavery where it lives.
- » Contact your mayor and police chief and encourage them to improve services for victims of sex trafficking and to be sure your city treats forced prostitution victims as survivors and not criminals.

10
HOURS

- » Volunteer for a local anti-trafficking organization.
- » Organize an awareness and fundraising day at your school, company, club or faith community.

- » Host an event to raise funds and awareness. Download our free guide to hosting a fundraising event at freetheslaves.net/takeaction.
